A brief report of the programme

The forenoon session of the programme was led by Dr. Sigma G.R. a known poet in English from Kerala. She titled her session 'Poetry and Poetics'. The session was more of an interactive nature. Her own hands-on experience in writing poetry was shared with the audience. The afternoon session was handled by internationally known refugee poet TenzinTundue. He presented poetry writing as something that could be naturally produced through the play of words. Through several word games he revealed to the audience how poetry comes into existence.

Outcome of the programme

There are some students who are very much interested in writing poetry in the department. Those students as well as others profited very much from the sessions as both the resource persons handled the sessions with an eye on how to make students actively engage themselves in writing poetry. All the members of the audience found at the end of the second session that they wrote something on their own. It was fun that helped the students build their future .
